

A Message from Dutchman Hospitality's President and Chairman of the Board

In light of recent events concerning the coronavirus (COVID-19), with it being a fluid and rapidly evolving situation, I wanted to personally take a moment to say that it has been and will always be our chief aim at Dutchman Hospitality to provide you with safe and relaxing guest experiences. Your health and well-being, and that of our team members, is of utmost importance to us.

We are keenly aware of the concerns associated with the current threat, and we want to assure you that we are staying connected with local, regional, and national health industry organizations, and following procedures to mitigate the additional spread of the virus.

While it has been our consistent policy to follow stringent procedures in keeping with state and local requirements, and our own high standards for cleanliness and safety, we have a heightened awareness to industry best practices, including personal hygiene, respiratory hygiene, cross contamination protocol, and overall best practice sanitation. These policies are constantly at work to protect our guests and staff from all illness including influenza, the common cold, and the most recent development of COVID-19.

In addition to our on-going commitment to all safety procedures and employee practices, we are committed to a strict employee policy that says, "We don't work sick."

During this time we will continue to care for our guests with passion, diligence, and responsibility, providing the traditional foods, simple comforts, and rural charm for which we are known. It is our privilege to serve you, our valued guest. On behalf of our entire team, I thank you for allowing us to provide you with authentic, safe, and memorable experiences at each of our Dutchman Hospitality properties.

Warm Regards,

Mike Palmer
President
